Bomba and Plena: In the House is Los Pleneros de la 21's cultural arts-in-education performance workshop series for NYC school students!

Throughout the school year, ITH offers a range of activities, with LP21's ensemble and other guest artists; featuring special traditions, themes and celebrations.

LP21 works with your school to build an ITH workshop that fits your curriculum.

Bomba and Plena In the House (ITH)

This program offers an opportunity for students to visit our headquarters at the Julia de Burgos Cultural Center to learn about Bomba and Plena music and dance traditions in energetic interactive performance workshops. Each session is packed with live demonstrations, engaging discussions about history and social context, and hands-on introductions to playing these centuries-old Afro-Puerto Rican music and dance traditions.

Duration is 1 hour. Cost is $500 per session, subsidized at a considerable discount from our in-school performance fees. Maximum capacity for each session is 35 people, including students, teachers and chaperones.

Virtual options for ITH are also available. We offer our own Zoom sessions, or we work with the virtual program of choice for your school.
